Philadelphia, Pa.

1889.

LOCATION.

The GYNÆC-RETREAT is centrally located in a beautiful part of West Philadelphia, at

3412 SPRING GARDEN STREET, and may be reached by the Arch Street cars, which pass the door.

Patients from a distance are expected to give due notice of their applications for admission, in order that places may be held for them.

Full details may be obtained with regard to facilities, accommodations, etc., through private correspondence.

All communications are held in strict confidence, and may be addressed to the Superintendent.

DESIGN.

THE GYNÆC-RETREAT is not a public charity or hospital, but is strictly a private retreat or home for lying-in women and female diseases, for those who do not desire publicity and are amply able to pay for home comforts not attainable in public institutions.

Not only are the comforts and seclusion of home made an especial object of this Retreat, but also, by the aid of an ample corps of physicians, the very best of medical attendance is always available.

At our reasonable rates, which we quote to applicants, medical service is included, together with all necessary attendance, though any patient has the choice of her own physician by paying the extra charges for the same.
